Symptoms of worn Shock Absorbers

KYB recommends replacing shock absorbers every 80 000 kilometers (or every 4 years) but also when you notice any of the following symptoms:

⬡ When the shock absorber is changed, the Suspension Mounting Kit is automatically removed. Take the opportunity to replace it.

KYB offers a wide range of Suspension Mounting Kits 100% compatible with its shock absorbers.

⬡ Suspension Mounting Kits act as a link between the shock absorber and vehicle chassis.

Reasons to change Mounting Kits.

- Reduce suspension vibration and noise
- Improve steering
- Eliminate noises while steering
- Keep the shock absorber positioned correctly for optimal steering geometry

Suspension Mounting Kits act as a link between the shock absorber and vehicle chassis.

Reasons to change Mounting Kits.

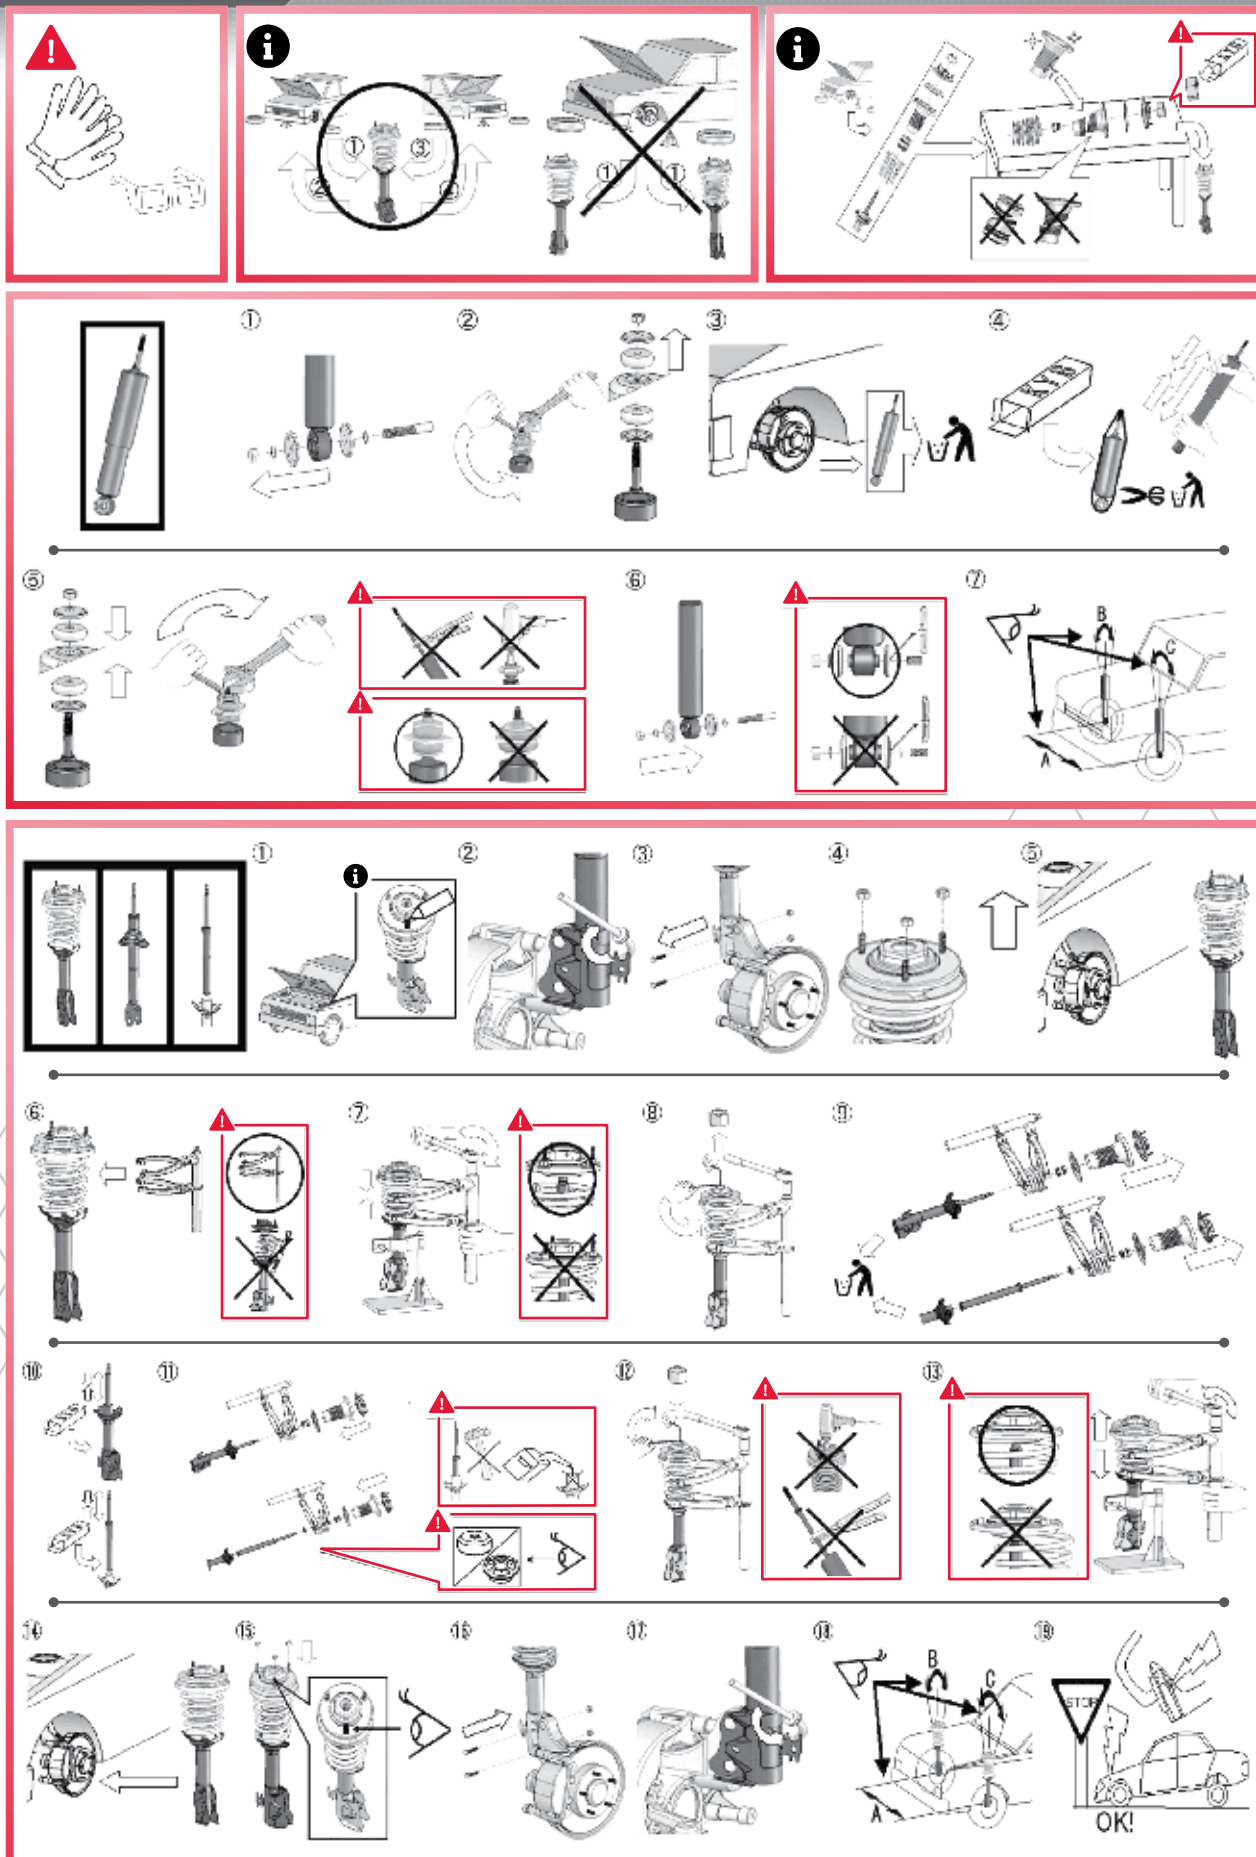

- Reduce suspension vibration and noise
- Improve steering

- Keep the shock absorber positioned correctly for optimal steering geometry

Reasons to change Protection Kits?

- Protect the piston rod from damage
- Protect the sealing joint to avoid oil leakages
- Reduce the risks to damage suspension components

WHY?

KYB has introduced a QR code on some of its parts. This is one of a number of tools to help make it easier for technicians to fit shock absorbers, coil springs and mounting kits.

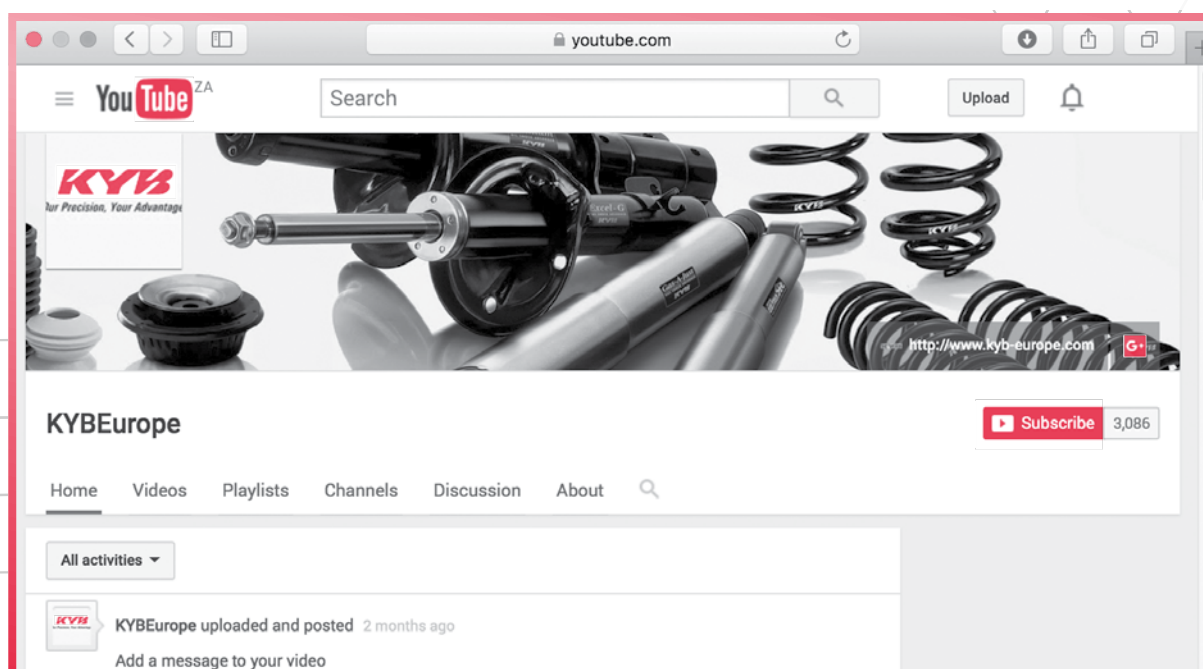

HOW?

To use it, you need to download a (free) QR scanner app onto your smart phone. You then scan the QR code on the box whenever you see the spanner icon. You can find a QR code reader on the App Store.

WHAT?

When you scan the code, you will be offered 4 choices, depending on what is available for that application: fitting video, fitting instructions, common information, and visual inspection.

KYB Global Overview

 How do I adjust a Gas-a-Just shock absorber?

The name of this product refers to an internal self-adjusting valve mechanism. It is not possible to manually adjust this shock absorber.

 What causes my vehicle to make clunking noises even though my shocks/struts are new?

This is usually caused by a mounting problem and not the shock or strut itself. Check the components that attach the shock or strut to the vehicle. The mount itself may be worn enough to cause the shock/strut to move up and down. Another common cause of noise is that the shock or strut mountings may not be tight enough causing the unit to have some slight movement between the bolt and bushing or other attaching parts.

 I can compress my shock/strut too easily by hand. Does this mean the shock/strut is weak or defective?

You cannot judge the strength or condition of a shock/strut by hand movement alone. The force and speed generated by a vehicle in operation exceeds what you can accomplish by hand. The fluid valves are calibrated to operate differently depending on the degree of movement inertia which cannot be duplicated by hand.

 When do I need to replace worn shocks or struts?

There are four main reasons that determine when to replace them:

- 1) To restore the vehicle's designed performance (usually after 80,000 Km)
- 2) when the vehicle has excessive ride control conditions (i.e. nose dive, body roll, etc.)
- 3) when the vehicle has a failed unit (i.e. dripping hydraulic fluid, tyre cupping, excessive bounce, etc.)
- 4) to upgrade performance.

 Should I consider replacing any other part while having my struts serviced?

Yes, it is also a good idea to replace both the strut mount and the protection kit when replacing struts. The strut mount optimizes suspension performance by providing a smooth steering response and reducing vibration. Protection kits will protect your new struts from dirt, dust, salt and leakage.

 How do I know if a strut is rebuild-able?

Struts cannot be refilled or rebuilt. However, some struts have a replaceable cartridge. These repairable struts can be identified by a large hexagonal shaped nut at the top of the strut body. Please remember that struts are usually gas charged and that replacement should only be performed by a qualified technician.

 Do I need to align my tyres after I have my struts replaced?

It depends on the vehicle design. A strut by design is also a component that supports the wheel & tyre. Some models aren't affected when the struts are replaced while others do change the wheel alignment. Strut removal & installation potentially changes the position of the tyre alignment. Some struts have adjustment slots to perform the alignment with. All struts affect alignment in some way so it's best to check the specific vehicle service manual and specifications.

 Do the strut mounts come with the bearings?

Many do, but only when the strut mount is also the steering pivot. The bearing is a wear item and affects the steering response as well as wheel alignment.

 Can worn shocks or struts cause my new tyres to wear unevenly?

Absolutely: shocks and struts provide damping force to control tyre movement. When the tyres move excessively, they develop a "cupping" wear pattern that damages the tyre. Other factors such as incorrect air pressure, worn suspension components or improperly aligned steering also causes uneven tyre wear.

If I have a twin-tube shock can I switch to a monotube shock?

Yes; for many vehicles that come factory-equipped with a twin-tube, KYB offers a monotube (Gas-a-Just) as a performance upgrade. This will increase the vehicle's handling and stability beyond the factory design. Please use the KYB catalogue to see if there is a monotube available for your specific vehicle.

What is the difference between original equipment KYB and the aftermarket KYB components?

Original equipment KYB shocks and struts are designed to the OE manufacturer's specifications. Although built on the same assembly lines, the aftermarket KYB products are calibrated to compensate for worn suspension components to help restore the vehicle's original handling and control characteristics.

KYB aftermarket also offers monotube shocks which on most vehicles will provide additional control and handling capabilities.

I noticed a light film of oil on the shaft of my shock/strut do I need to replace them?

Probably not; a small amount of oil is normal and is used to lubricate the polished shaft and the upper seals. However if the unit is extremely wet or dripping oil, the unit should be inspected by a qualified technician.

Why do I need to replace worn shocks or struts?

In a nutshell: To keep the vehicle's stability within its designed capability. Stability means keeping the body as level as possible during bumps, turns and stops, while keeping the tyres on the road under all conditions.

The shock's main function is to resist body & tyre movement, but as shocks wear the vehicle becomes unstable; the steering feels less responsive, the body leans more and the tyres grip less. Stopping ability can be reduced as much as 23% and the driver needs more skill to keep the vehicle on the intended path and from losing control on curves.

Shocks cycle about 1000 times per Km driven. After 80,000 Km, that's 80 million cycles. Because shocks use metal discs that flex with each movement, they become fatigued over time which causes the reduced performance, which is why replacement shocks and struts are suggested after 80,000 kilometers.

What is the difference between shock absorbers and struts?

The function is essentially the same, but the largest difference is the way they mount to the vehicle. The strut design acts as an integral part of the suspension by replacing the upper control arm and acting as a pivot point for the steering. The shock design is used in addition to the suspension and steering components.

What is the difference between a monotube and a twin-tube design?

By far, most vehicles (cars & trucks) in the world come factory-equipped with a twin-tube style shock or strut; probably 85% or more. The twin-tube is cost-effective and performs very well when the vehicle is operated within its designed purpose and for average, everyday use. In many other model vehicles, when the 10 Questions & Answers manufacturer designs a vehicle for more than average driving conditions, they often choose a monotube style shock. It's a bit more costly, but has a quicker response rate, has no performance fade due to aeration and can automatically add performance just when needed.

For vehicles factory-equipped with twin-tubes, the monotube replacement shock absorber becomes a performance upgrade opportunity. It can increase a vehicle's handling and stability without dramatically decreasing ride comfort.

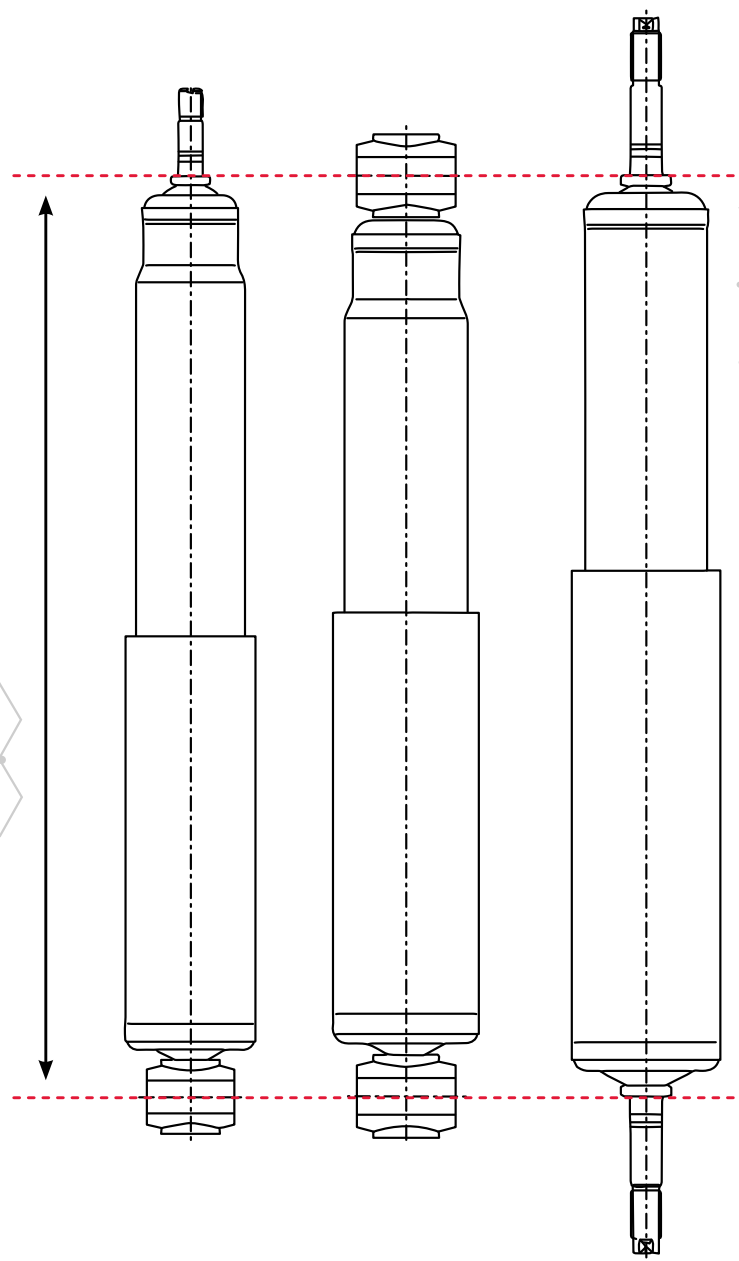

What kind of oil is used in KYB shock absorbers? Does it vary depending on the climate?

KYB uses the same specially designed oil in all its shock absorbers, regardless of the area they are to be used. It is made from mineral oil, with patented additives and catalysts. It takes into account: durability, performance at both low and high temperature, and low friction.

Measuring points differ based on the mounting style.

Extended and Compressed lengths are measured:

- 1 From center of eyering to shoulder of stud
- 2 From center of eyering to center of eyering
- 3 From shoulder of stud to shoulder of stud

OIL LEAKAGE

Normally oil leakage occurs as a result of damaged oil seal or bushing. Any damage to the piston rod can affect the oil seal.

Damage due to worn parts (Dust cover, bump rubber). Replace those parts and replace with new KYB shock absorber.

Damage during installation of Shock Absorber. Do not hold piston rod with any tools. Replace with new KYB shock absorber.

Incorrect installation of shock absorber causes irregularity. Correct installation with the right instruction or suitable tools.

PHYSICAL DEFECT

Physical defects are bent or broken shock absorbers.

Frozen liquid causes pressure in the strut. Do not put any liquid in the strut housing.

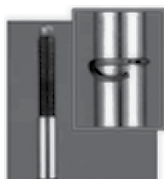

Tightened with impact wrench. Do not use any power tools.

Damage during installation of Shock Absorber. Do not hold piston rod with any tools. Replace with new KYB shock absorber.

NOISE

Noise can be present as either a rattle or a swish. Any damage to the piston rod can affect the oil seal.

Damage due to worn parts (Dust cover, bump rubber). Replace those parts replace with new KYB shock absorber.

Incorrect installation of shock absorber causes irregularity. Correct installation with the right instruction or suitable tools.

KYB recommends replacing all suspension components at the same time.
